

Leaders and teams that hold their energy, clarity and connection under pressure.

Soma-Q is a workplace well-being partner delivering nervous system training for performance and productivity, with progress measured every week.

The problem we address

Under sustained pressure, the body treats a missed deadline like a physical threat. Left unaddressed, that activation quietly costs energy, clarity, sleep and judgment until burnout becomes the baseline for the people your organization depends on.

What changes

- ▲ Leaders recognize what their nervous system is doing and shift it
- ▲ Teams recover faster and stay present in hard conversations
- ▲ Progress is visible every week, not assumed

How an engagement works

Leadership and team engagements

Structured, multi-week training for leaders and teams. The right fit for most organizations.

Presence Under Pressure™ workshops

A half-day session that gives a group a shared language and working practices.

Organizational partnership

Ongoing support that builds capacity across the organization over time.

How progress is measured

Every engagement includes weekly measurement through the Soma-Q Leadership Progress Measurement System (SQ-LPMS). The SQ-M shows how the method is taking hold in each person, and the SQ-C shows the resulting shift in leadership competencies. Organizational outcomes such as focus, capacity and retention are designed to be supported by this work.

Request the overview.

Scan to ask for the Soma-Q for Organizations Measurement Overview, or talk with Megan McDonald, Founder. soma-q.com